THE VOTER'S DUTY.

In politics as in war only those learn the cost of government who endure hardness for its sake. The weary march, the lonely night vigil, the shock of battle, the sickness, wounds and suffering of the hospital teach the lesson of patriotism as nothing else can. So it is ordained that by a constant round of political duties the voter learns the value of his liberties. Wearying as may be the attendance at primaries, conventions, and clubs, there is more work to be done on election day by every good citizen.

An unsuccessful political campaign is as much a disgrace to the voter, as an unsuccessful military campaign would be to a soldier. One of the oddities of political contests is the desire of voters to be on the winning side as if majorities were necessarily right. Hundreds of campaigns are lost because of overconfidence. A little less trusting to luck, and the minority would get out more of its votes and become the majority. A plucky party will attract wavering voters through its ceaseless efforts, and through the confidence it inspires.

It is the duty of the voter to vote, as it is the duty of the soldier to fight. Who knows which side will win before the battle is fought? Because they do not expect their comrades to vote many Republicans are discouraged. They have confidence in their leaders—their cause is just, but faint, heartedness says "It is no use to go to the polls."

But there is use. A formidable independent movement of Democrats and Republicans in Hudson County seems destined to reduce the majority of that Democratic stronghold. General Grubb's popularity in South Jersey promises to increase the Republican majority in that section of the state. Shall Essex County give two or three thousand Republican majority, or only a paltry five hundred? Shall Bloomfield return two hundred and fifty or six hundred Republican majority? These are vital questions in the canvass, for upon them may hinge the general result. These majorities are made up of individual votes, and depend upon the earnestness and fidelity of the man who holds the ballot.

Yet many will say "It is not worth while," and wake up perhaps on the morning after election their candidate defeated by an insignificant majority. To halting voters we would say vote, even though convinced of its uselessness. Vote to show your interest in the brave man, the energetic soldier, the good citizen who has stumped the state in earnest for the governorship. Vote to show your disapproval of the political trickster placed in nomination by the Democratic party, and your disapproval of the shameless partisanship, the thirst of spoils, and the disregard of local interest shown by the last legislature. Vote to secure decent laws for the protection of the ballot and the security of the home.

The whole ticket is an honor to Republicanism, from Gen. Grubb, the candidate for Governor to Schuyler B. Jackson, the candidate for Surrogate, J. Wesley Van Gieson, the candidate for Freeholder-at-Large, Edward W. Jackson, the candidate for Assembly, and James Peck, the candidate for Freeholder.

The seed of Republicanism has been sown broadcast over the State by earnest and effective public speakers. The harvest is at hand. All will be in vain unless there is effective work done in gathering in the votes upon election day.

Remember that scarcely more than two-thirds the votes cast in presidential is polled in off elections. That party will win which shall bring out the larger percentage of its vote. The artillery duel is over; now for the gallant charge with Gen. Grubb at the head. May victory rest upon the Republican banners;

Incorporation.

To the Editors of The Citizen:

It is understood that the Township Committee are about to call a special election to determine the question of incorporation. Less than a year ago this question was decided in the negative Previous to the election every argument in favor of the law was brought to the attention of voters. Under ordinary circumstances this decision should be final. It is true a new petition has been presented to the Township Committee, but is it signed largely by those who formerly opposed the law? If not where is the necessity for a new election? It is said that those who formerly voted against the law are now favorable to it. It would also be true to say that many who voted for the law last year are it earnest opponents. Unless the Township Committee are satisfied that there has been a radical change in the opinion of voters, they would not appear to be warranted in incurring the expense of a new election. Our observation leads us to believe that the result of a new election is by no means certain.

Of the new law it may be frankly admitted that it has some, perhaps many, Committee is to small. The new act provides for ward representation, and longer terms of service. This is an admirable provision, and the one by the way which is most attractive to voters. For the sake of ward representation many voters are willing to take on faith the whole of this cumbersome and unsatisfactory act. But more of this further on.

The law has provisions for the opening of streets, making of grades, and for police regulations, which are useful and necessary.

There is however, a reverse side to the picture A familiar proverb counsels us to "leave well enough alone." For a number of years the spirit of improvements has kept step with the needs of the place. Streets have been paved, sidewalks laid, a fire department organized, a beautiful park graded, and water and gas provided. The present system of street and sidewalk improvement works well, people are willing, yes, glad to pay one-half the cost of sidewalks, and the tax-payers do not begrudge liberal appropriations for roads. The system is practically a success. Now it is proposed to adopt a new plan of road and sidewalk improvement, and for what? Well, principally that the Township Committee may be enlarged, and committeemen elected by wards. Well, there is no objection to that, and it can be accomplished without the adoption of the incorporation act. In the law of 1886, Chapter XIV, page 22, is as act to provide for the division of incorporated towns, townships and boroughs into wards, and to regulate representation therein. This law we believe is the one under which East Orange is now acting. It has been tried and found to work satisfactorily. There is no desire there to try experiments as radical as those offered by the incorporation act.

In this act of incorporation, which we are called upon to adopt, everything is on a grand scale. There is a cumbersome board of education, larger than the new Council, a recorder, a chief engineer, and chief of police; the Town Council is made an excise commission, thus introducing the temperance question into local politics. There are the provisions for the building of sewers, roads, and sidewalks at the expense of property-owners along the line of the streets, and provisions for the voting of money entirely at the discretion of the Town Council. This last arrangement may be good or bad; we are unable to say.

The method of building roads, sidewalks and sewers we know to be bad by actual experiment. Before us lies the road act of April 3rd, 1873, which provides for the building of macadamized roads upon petition of the property owners with power to bond for the purpose. It is sufficient comment to make upon it that no macadamized road was ever laids under its provisions. The sidewalk act of March 29th, 1872 is somewhat similar. Some sidewalks were laid under it, but it was found defective, and passed into innocuous desuetude.

It is our belief that these provisions of the new law will be found equally useless. We have been told, and shall be told again that roadmaking and sidewalk laying can still go on under the present plan notwithstanding the new law.

What then becomes of the plea that if we adopt the act of incorporation we shall be able to do much according to law that is now done in defiance of law?

Shall we adopt the act of incorporation with the avowed intention of evading its provisions? It would seem to us wise for the Township Committee before calling a special election to decide upon the adoption of the act of incorporation to consider whether it would not be better to call the election to decide upon the adoption of the act before mentioned, Chapter XIV laws of 1886. No doubt THE CITIZEN would give it to its readers in full should there be any disposition seriously to consider it.

PHYSIOLOGY AND HYGIENE.

The Potato Cure—A New Process of Removing Things from the Stomach.

The so called "potato cure" is a new method of removing foreign bodies that have been swallowed. The process, as reported by Dr. Salzer, consists in requiring the patient to eat large quantities of potato, which has the effect of proportionately dilating the whole intestinal canal, so that the foreign body is enveloped and cannot cling to any part during its passage.

Dr. Salzer shows several foreign bodies, removed in this way at the clinic of Professor Billroth, one of these being a weight of twenty grammes, swallowed by a child; the second, a set of artificial teeth, upward of five centimeters long and three centimeters broad, and the third a needle. According to both Professor Billroth and Dr. Salzer, many gastrotomies could be obviated by this method in the case of swallowed foreign bodies.

Curious Theories About the Finger Nails.

Fortune telling by means of the finger nails was not uncommon in ancient times. The practice was to rub the nails with oil and soot or wax and to hold up the nails, thus prepared, against the sun and upon the transparent, horny substance were supposed to appear figures or characters which gave the answer required. In more recent times people have been found predicting by means of the nails of the hand and telling the disposition of persons with certain descriptions of nails. However absurd it may appear, Medical Classics gives examples of this superstition:

A person with broad nails is of gentle nature, timid and bashful. Those whose nails grow into the flesh at the points or sides are given to luxury. A white mark on the nail bespeaks misfortune. Persons with very pale nails are subject to much infirmity of the flesh, and persecution by neighbors and friends. People with narrow nails are ambitious and quarrelsome. Lovers of knowledge and liberal sentiment have round nails. Indolent people have generally fleshy nails. Small nails indicate littleness of mind, obstinacy and conceit. Melancholy persons are distinguished by their pale or lead colored nails; and choleric, martial men, delighting in war, have red and spotted nails.

Pneumonia Treated with Ice.

A Finnish physician states in a medical journal that he has now treated no less than 106 cases of pneumonia with ice, and with the best results. Though ten of the cases were of double pneumonia, only three out of the whole number succumbed, notwithstanding that the epidemic was by no means a slight one. The method adopted was to apply over the affected lung an India rubber bag containing ice continuously for from twelve to twenty-four hours after the crisis. In addition to the local treatment the patients were given such medicines as are usually employed, that is to say, opium, ipecacuanha, digitalis, brandy, etc. The method has received of late some attention in this country.

A Cure for Warts.

I removed a formidable wart from my daughter's hand by the application of simple lemon juice, which is an infallible cure. The wart requires saturating with the juice once or twice a day for three or four days, or about a week in some cases. The wart diminishes gradually, and disappears altogether, without pain, and leaving no mark and without incurring any of the risks mentioned in connection with professional process. Another equally efficacious and harmless method is to saturate the wart with potato water daily for about a week; or, better still, with the froth to be obtained from the water while the potatoes are being boiled.

SOCIAL ETIQUETTE.

A Brief Consideration of the Disputed Question, "Who Shall Call First?"

In answer to the much vexed question, "Who shall make the first call?" it may be said that in Washington the new comer calls first upon the resident, but this is the reverse of the custom prevailing generally in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, the large cities of the west and in country towns. It would seem appropriate that the older resident should make the first advances, but if there is no such distinction two women need not stand waiting for each other forever. Mrs. Sherwood suggests as a polite and admirable substitute for a first call, the sending out of cards for several days in the month by a lady who wishes to begin her social life, say in a new city. These may or may not be accompanied by the card of some well known friend. If these cards bring the desired visits or the cards of the desired guests, the beginner may feel that she has started on her society career with no loss of self respect. Those who do not respond are generally in a minority.

Too much haste, however, in making new acquaintances—"pushing," as it is called—cannot be too greatly deprecated. First calls, according to Mrs. Sherwood, should be returned within a week. If a lady is invited to any entertainment by a new acquaintance, whether the invitation came through a friend or not, she should immediately leave cards and send either a regret or an acceptance. To lose time in this matter is a great rudeness. Whether she attend the entertainment or not, she should call after it within a week. Then, having done all that is polite and having shown herself a woman of good breeding, she can keep up the acquaintance or not, as she pleases. Sometimes there are reasons why a lady does not wish to keep up the acquaintance, but she must not, for her own sake, be oblivious to the politeness extended.

Suggestions to Young Ladies.

Young ladies traveling alone should, if possible, arrange for some friend to meet them at their journey's end, especially when going to a city or town where they themselves are strangers. In New York, for instance, it is considered hardly safe for a young lady to take a hack at a railway station; it is safer to trust to the people's conveyance—the horse car.

"Is it according to etiquette for young ladies to travel alone in a sleeping car or on a steamboat during a night journey?" One authority answers the question decidedly as follows: It is not, although it will sometimes happen that they are obliged to do so. A young lady so situated should, if possible, secure a stateroom leading from the ladies' cabin, she should not go down to supper or sit in the general passenger saloon. If she go on a sleeping car, a section should be secured for her use, or, better still, a berth in the ladies' car.

Gloves and Stockings.

Suedes are still worn, though kid gloves are gaining all the while in favor. Many of the gloves brought out for autumn wear are embroidered on the back. Tan, russet and gray are the popular colors in street gloves, and for evening delicate tans and sand color are the favored shades.

Black stockings are almost universally worn in the day time, but for evening beautiful colors are brought out to match the dresses. Embroidery and open work combined, and the introduction of real lace insertion are prominent features in the new stockings provided for evening wear.

Born in 1760.

A Buenos Ayres paper affirms that there is now in Bolivia a surgeon, Luca Silva by name, whose age is not less than 129 years. He was born in Cochalamba in 1760, and devoted himself, after graduating in medicine, to the practice of surgery. Lately he was taken to the house of Senor Jose Ramallo, president of the Dramatic College of La Paz, and gave a lucid account of the revolution in 1809, which resulted in the emancipation [illegible] anish yoke.—
